Pay Cut — $2 To $10

Counties Win USDA OK For Reserve Land Hay

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has approved the release of reserve land for grazing or haying in Appomattox and neighboring counties as a measure to help livestock owners with their drought - reduced feed shortage.

County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices, which will administer the program, have been advised that farmers availing themselves of the program must pay from a minimum of $2 to a maximum of $10 per acre for such use of the land.

Fee To Vary

The fee, . . in effect temporarily buying the land back from the government, . . . will depend on the value of the grass crop growing on the land and the length of time landowners will use it.

Newton Jennings, Appomattox ASCS office manager said today that his office will begin taking applications for the program after August 1. This starting date may vary from county to county.

He explained that the emergency program is effective only through October 31. Those who expect to harvest hay from the reserved land must complete this task by October 31.

. . . Under the reserve program . . . the conservation reserve, wheat stabilization and feed grain reduction reserve . . . land in the program is released for grazing after October 31 without any reduction in reserve payments. This applies to all reserved land except that in the long-time conservation reserve.

. . . The Times - Virginian area counties were among 48 more Virginia counties approved for the emergency program, July 23 by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Earlier counties had been approved.

Area counties are Appomattox, Amelia, Buckingham, Charlotte, Cumberland, Nottoway, Powhatan, Prince Edward and Campbell.

The Robert E. Lee Soil and Water Conservation District recently entered into a new Memorandum of Understanding with the United States Department of Agriculture, Secretary of Agriculture, Orville L. Freeman said in a letter to Chairman of the District Board of Supervisors:

"I want to commend the governing body of your district for their progressive action in updating the soil and water conservation program and modernizing the memorandum of understanding with the U.S. Department of Agriculture. This is an important initial step in helping private landowners move forward more effectively with their resource conservation and development effort.

The district movement has gained enormous strength over the past quarter century because you and other dedicated men have given freely of your time, energy and imagination in the finest tradition of democratic action and self government.

We are on the threshold of a new era in the management of our resources — of land and water forest and wildlife— by our people. I am convinced that your District has an important part to play in giving reality to our broadened concepts of conservation and rural areas development. I urge you to push forward in every way you can conceive to achieve maximum advancement in the conservation and economic development of our soil and water resources within your District.

I assure you of the Department's readiness to cooperate with you to the full extent of its ability."

Dairy Feeder Sale August 7

Another first has been established for Virginia dairymen.

Standards have been developed and arrangements are being made for a dairy feeder steer sale at Culpeper on August 7.

Sale officials said they anticipate 500 steers at the Culpeper sale. The steers will be officially graded by the VDA livestock grading service.

Consignments are restricted to steers of Holstein breeding or crosses from a Holstein cow and a beef bull. Steers must weigh between 400 and 1100 pounds.

The number of dairy type steers has increased and with this increase the consumer demand for this type of meat has gone up.

Anyone interested in consigning steers to this sale should contact George Meyer, dairy marketing agent of VDA's Division of Markets in Richmond or Roy Heltzel, Agricultural Extension Agent in Culpeper.
